

The Voice of
Adult Learning

The Irish Journal of Adult and Community Education: The Adult Learner

STYLE GUIDE 2024

CONTENTS

Introduction	3
General Information	4
Author's Submission Statement	5
Style Points	6
Title	6
Abstract	6
Keywords	6
Font	6
Main text	7
Headings	7
Abbreviations and Acronyms	7
Capitals	8
Hyphens	8
Numbers	9
Quotations	9
Lists	9
Punctuation	10
Common Phrases	11
Citations and Referencing	12
In-text Citations	12
Direct and Indirect Quotations	13
Referencing	14
Images, Figures, Tables and Diagrams	16
Terminology and Audience	17
Audience	17
Spelling of Terms	18
Appendix	19

INTRODUCTION

The Editorial Board of The Irish Journal of Adult and Community Education: The Adult Learner welcomes articles and reviews from the community of tutors, educators, researchers, and commentators in the field of adult and community education. The Journal requires that authors use an academic style of referencing, the system used to acknowledge the root of your ideas, theories, facts, tables, graphs, quotations, and any other source material.

Please note the following requirements for the submission of articles. You must adhere strictly to the Style Guide 2024. If articles do not adhere to the style guide they may be sent back to the author for revision before inclusion in the peer-review process.

GENERAL INFORMATION

When you are writing an article or review for The Irish Journal of Adult and Community Education: The Adult Learner, you will have to draw on others' work in order to substantiate your own position, to evaluate evidence, explorations and arguments used by other authors and to demonstrate your wider reading and study.

Please note: You must acknowledge the work of other authors and account for your interest in it. This is where referencing is essential and it involves a two-part process: the in-text citation and the list of references at the end of the work. Information on referencing may be found in the Citations and Referencing section.

If there is a change of authorship after you have submitted your article for consideration, written confirmation is required from the authors whose names are no longer listed.

Before submitting your article:

- Proof-read your article and double-check references before submission
- Make sure all of your graphics have a resolution of at least 600ppi and are in black and white
- Do not use endnotes, headers or footers
- Avoid the use of footnotes except for the rare instances where an explanation of an important fact or clarification is not possible in the text of the article (note that footnotes count toward the total word count of your article)
- Make sure your document language settings are English (Ireland).

AUTHOR'S SUBMISSION STATEMENT

All submissions to the Journal must include a one-page Author's Submission Statement that contains the following information:

- Name of the author(s)
- Institutional affiliation (if applicable)
- Email address
- Phone number
- Mail address
- Title of article.

The author should clearly state under which of three categories they are making a submission:

- Type 1: Peer-reviewed theory articles (max 8000 words)
- Type 2: Peer-reviewed case studies about practice (max 3000 words)
- Type 3: Book or policy reviews (max 750 words).

The Author's Submission Statement should be submitted as a one-page Microsoft Word file separate from the Microsoft Word file containing the author's submission.

An example of the Author's Submission Statement is available in Appendix A of this Style Guide.

STYLE POINTS

Title of Article

The title of the article should be placed at the top of the page in font:

Times New Roman, 16pt, bold

Abstract

An Abstract of no more than 100 to 150 words should be inserted at the beginning of the article.

The Abstract should be written in italics.

Keywords Section

A Keywords Section should be inserted under the Abstract. Each keyword should be capitalised.

An example of the title, abstract, and keywords section from a previously published article is available in Appendix B of this Style Guide.

Font

- Font: Times New Roman
- Size: 16 point for the main heading and 12 point for all body text including section headings
- Line Spacing: 1.5-point, 0 point spacing 'before' and 0 point spacing 'after'
- Hard Return Spacing: 8 point between paragraphs
- Alignment: Text should be justified
- Section Headings: Must be bold and tabbed in
- Sub-section headings: Must be in bold italics and tabbed in
- Spelling: Always use English spelling (e.g. organised, programme, colour) not American
- Italics: Use italics for foreign terms in full written form such as ibidem and et alia (abbreviations of Latin terms e.g. et al., etc. do not need to be italicised) and book titles, government documents, and journal titles.

Do not use italics for emphasis unless directly quoting from another source.

MAIN TEXT

All body text, including section headings, use 12 point Times New Roman font. Please see the Font section on page 6 for further information.

Headings

Headings within articles must be bold, use 12 point font, and be indented by 1.27cm.

In all Headings (Title, Section Headings, Subsection Headings) use capitals for:

- Nouns (man, bus, book)
- Adjectives (angry, lovely, small)
- Verbs (run, eat, sleep)
- Adverbs (slowly, quickly, quietly)
- Pronouns (he, she, it)
- Subordinating conjunctions (as, because, that).

Do not use capitals for:

- Articles: a, an, the (unless it appears at the first word of the title)
- Coordinating conjunctions (and, but, or, for, nor)
- Prepositions (fewer than five letters) on, at, to, from, by.

The layout of paragraph formatting requirement in Microsoft Word is visible in Appendix C of this Style Guide.

Abbreviations and Acronyms

- A full point should be used in standard abbreviations of terms or phrases to indicate the omission of letters, e.g. No. 10, Dr., Mr.
- A full point should be used to abbreviate a proper name, e.g. Clayton, J. or J.D. Salinger
- A full point should be used to abbreviate a Latin phrase, e.g. (exempli gratia), ibid. (ibidem), etc. (et cetera)
- Do not use full points in abbreviations of a formal organisation, e.g. IMF, NASA, or ILP
- Use all capitals if an abbreviation is pronounced as the individual letters (an initialism): ETB, CEO
- Use all capitals if an abbreviation is pronounced as a word. Spell out with capitals, e.g. OECD, NATO, UNICEF, unless it can be considered to have entered the language as an everyday word, such as awol, laser, pin number and sim card.

Note: Abbreviations or acronyms should only be used if the organisation or term appears more than two times in the text. Additionally, it should always be put in parentheses at first mention.

Example: Education and Training Boards (ETBs), European Agenda for Adult Learning (EAAL).

Please note that certain audiences will not necessarily be aware of adult education abbreviations. If an organisation is mentioned two times or less, it is not necessary to give its abbreviation or acronym.

Note: Leeds Harvard referencing style does not use ibid to refer to previously cited items. If you are citing the same item twice in a row (i.e. you do not cite any other items in the text between the two citations) you must write the full citation again.

Capitals:

You must always use a capital letter:

- At the start of a sentence
- For proper names and place names, e.g. Mary; Galway
- For days, months, festivals, and projects, e.g. September; Adult Learners' Festival
- For the titles of reports, books, and government documents (e.g. Further Education and Training Strategy 2014-2019)
- For people's titles, e.g. Mrs., Dr., Mr.

Hyphens

- Hyphens tend to clutter text, there is no need to use hyphens when the meaning is clear without a hyphen
- Use hyphens to form short compound adjectives (e.g. two-tonne vessel, three-year deal)
- Use hyphens in adjectival phrases including a verb participle (e.g. the jacket was ill-fitting)
- Use hyphens in prefixes before a proper name, number or date, e.g. anti-Thatcherism, post-2014 legislation, mid-December
- Do not use hyphens for open compound nouns, but do use them for compound adjectives (e.g. the Irish working class/ Irish working-class culture)
- When questioning whether a term should be hyphenated, please refer to the Collins English Dictionary spelling (e.g. wellbeing).

Note: use hyphen only between words, do not use a hyphen where the longer en dash (–) is required.

Numbers

- Numbers one to nine should be spelt out (unless expressed in a percent form)
- Numbers from 10 onwards, the numerical figures should be used
- Numbers over 1,000 use a comma as a thousand separator
- If a sentence begins with a number, the word should be spelt out rather than using the numerical figures (e.g. Thirty people gathered in Dublin)
- Use m (million), bn (billion) or tn (trillion) for sums of money, quantities or inanimate objects in copy (e.g. 5m tonnes of coal, 30bn doses of vaccine, €2tn), but million or billion for people or animals (e.g. 1 million people, 25 million rabbits, the world population is 7 billion, etc.)

Note: Numbers do not need to be spelled out if they are part of the term (Level 1, Level 2, Level 3, etc.)

For percentages:

- Use the symbol % in all cases, rather than the word 'percent'
- Use percentages only when a substantial size population (e.g. over 100) is being used as a base sample set.

Quotations

- Use single quotation marks first
- Double quotation marks should be used for a quotation within a quotation
- If a quotation is longer than two lines, it should be indented
- Indented quotations do not require quotation marks, unless containing a quotation within them (use single quotation marks in this instance)
- Indented quotation should be introduced by a colon
- Quotations should not be italicised (exceptions being titles of publications cited within the quotation).

Note: Direct quotations from a source must cite the page number. If the source you are quoting does not have page numbers, use [no pagination]. More information on this may be found in the citations and referencing section.

Lists

- Use a comma for simple lists (including the Oxford comma)
- Use semi-colons or bullet points for complex lists
- Do not use full stops in bulleted lists (these should not be in full sentence form)
- Ensure lists follow a parallel structure where possible.

If bullet points are used, please use the following structure:

- Primary list structure
 - Second list structure
 - Third list structure.

Punctuation

The full stop should be used to:

- Complete a sentence
- Indicate an abbreviation (as specified by rules stated in the abbreviation section of this style guide)
- Full stops should be followed by a single space before a new sentence
- When referencing, full stops should not be used at the end of a website citation.

The colon should be used to:

- Indicate a distinct pause
- Introduce a list
- Introduce a long quotation.

The semi-colon should be used to:

- Link two complementary ideas that could stand on their own as a complete sentence
Example: The rumour was that the king was dead; the people believed it.
- To separate complicated lists.

The comma should be used to:

- Add a descriptive clause to a sentence
- Surround a defining clause
- Separate simple lists

The apostrophe should be used to:

- Show something is left out of a word (e.g. 'don't' is an abbreviation for 'do not')
Example: Don't open the door.

Note: You should refrain from the use of contractions in formal writing unless you are quoting directly from a source. Be aware of exceptions to this rule, e.g. its v. it's ('Its' is the possessive version of it)

Example: Everything in its place. The dog wagged its tail. It's a fine day.

Common Phrases

Common phrases that appear frequently in the journal and which are highlighted here must be presented in the following format:

- This Journal should be referred to the first time as The Irish Journal of Adult and Community Education: The Adult Learner with subsequent references as The Adult Learner
- AONTAS should be referred to the first time as AONTAS, The National Adult Learning Organisation with subsequent references as AONTAS

Use of a common phrase in a submission must be introduced fully in the first instance, followed by a comma and the phrase 'herein referred to as...'

CITATIONS AND REFERENCING

The Irish Journal of Adult and Community Education: The Adult Learner has adopted the Leeds Harvard Referencing Style, which has been developed for the Social Sciences as a clear, accurate and uncomplicated method of citation and referencing, known as the (Author, Date, Page Number) in parenthesis method. To see further examples, please visit the Harvard Referencing Guide website provided by Leeds University.

The use of free referencing software, such as Zotero or Mendeley, is recommended to ensure your citations and references follow the Leeds Harvard referencing style.

An example reference section may be found in Appendix E.

In-Text Citations

You must cite all sources, both those used in directly and indirectly. To cite a source in the text you must provide the following in parenthesis:

- Author(s) last name
- Date of publication
- Page number(s) if it is a direct or indirect quote.

Example: (Jones, 2023)

Example: (Jones and Smith, 2019, p.10)

This format may vary in the following circumstances:

Scenario	Example
A source with more than three authors uses 'et al.' Please do not italicize.	(Jones et al., 2022)
Multiple sources with different authors. Separate them by semicolons and order them by year of publication with the oldest first.	(Smith et al., 2002; Jones, 2014)
Multiple sources with the same publication year. List them alphabetically by author(s) using semicolons to separate.	(Brown, 2020; Jones et al., 2020; Smith, 2020)
Multiple authors with the same last name, please provide the first initial with a full stop, followed by the last name.	(A. Jones and J. Jones, 2019)
Multiple sources with the same publication date and author(s) should be distinguished by adding a lower-case letter after the year (a, b, c, etc.) in their first mention within the text.	(Jones, 2005a) (Jones, 2005b) (Jones, 2005c)

Scenario	Example
In instances where the author has more than one source referenced within a sentence from different years, you do not need to repeat the author's surname. Include their surname and the oldest publication date first, then separate the other years with semicolons.	(Jones, 1999; 2002; 2013; 2023)

Note: Ampersands (&) are not permitted. Please use 'and' in lieu of an ampersand.

If you are referencing a direct or indirect quote, page number(s) need to be included in the in-text citation. Page numbers should be written as follows:

Scenario	Example
p. for single page referencing	(Jones, 2022, p.18)
pp. for multiple page referencing	(Jones et al., 2019, pp.205-206)
If the source you are quoting does not have page numbers, use [no pagination]	(Smith, 2005, no pagination)

Note: Do not space between full stop and page numbers or hyphens in the case that you are citing multiple pages.

Direct and Indirect Quotations

If you are directly quoting an author, the quoted text should be enclosed by single quotation marks and the in-text citation should have the author, publication date, and page number(s) from where the quotation was taken from.

Example: 'The times we are living in calls for new forms of education and that an integral part of creating something new is imaginatively exploring what might be possible' (Finnegan, 2016, p.55).

Example: 'It was emphasised that citations in a text should be consistent' (Jones, 1998, no pagination).

Note: It is not necessary to begin or end a direct quotation with an ellipsis [...] as the reader can assume that the quote has been excerpted from the source.

An indirect quotation is an idea or fact that is taken from a source and used in your article. Indirect quotes do not use quotation marks but require the same in-text citation information as direct quotes.

Example: According to James Baldwin, the racial and national identities created a complex version of self are illuminated in part by leaving one's nation and looking from the outside in (Baldwin, 1964, pp.1-23).

Quotes longer than two lines must be indented, with 8 point spacing between paragraphs, and must be preceded by a colon. Indented quotes do not use quotation marks.

It is good practice to track down and cite the original source you are quoting from. However, if this is not possible, you may cite the ideas of one author that you have found in the work of a different author. The in-text citation must use 'cited in' to indicate location of quotation from another text/author. You must also supply the author(s) of the idea, the source you located them in, and the page number(s).

Example: It was emphasised that citations in a text should be consistent (Jones, 1998, cited in Carol, 2001, p.9).

Note: In your reference section, you are only required to cite the source in which you found the idea(s). Using the example above, you would cite the work of Carol (2001).

Minor edits to quotations are permitted so long as the meaning of the quotation is not altered.

- Use square brackets and ellipsis to indicate text omitted from a direct quotation [...]
- Use [sic] where an error/irregularity appears in a direct quotation.

Example: According to Smith (1992, p.45), 'Aitcheson [sic] appears to believe that everything changes; but this is questionable'.

For more information on how to format quotations, please refer to page 10 of the Style Guide.

Referencing

All references cited in your submitted work must be included in the reference section at the end of your article. Your reference section must include a hanging indent and be in alphabetical order, starting with A and ending with Z.

An example reference section, including the hanging indent, may be found in Appendix E.

The references in your reference section should follow the format outlined below. Links to further information on referencing these sources are included in the table. Please pay attention to the placement of fullstops and commas, as well as where italics or bolded font are required:

Source	Format	Example
Book	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Title . Edition (if not first edition). Place of publication: Publisher.	Brookfield, S. D. 2005. The power of critical theory for adult learning and technology . Maidenhead, UK: Open University Press.

Source	Format	Example
Book chapter	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Chapter title. In: Family name, INITIAL(S) (of editor). (ed(s)). Title of book . Edition (if not first edition). Place of publication: Publisher, page numbers.	Olesen, V. 2005. Early Millennial Feminist Qualitative Research. In: Denzin, N. and Lincoln, Y. (eds). The Sage Handbook of Qualitative Research . 3rd ed. New York: Sage Publications, pp.235-278.
Journal articles	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Title of article. Journal Title . Volume (issue number), page numbers.	Rechavi, O., Hourri-Ze'evi, L., Anava, S., Goh, W., Kerk, S., Hannon, G., and Hobert, O. 2014. Starvation-induced transgenerational inheritance of small RNAs in C. elegans . Cell . 158 (2), pp.277-287.
Newspaper article (online)	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Title of article. Newspaper title . [Online]. Date. [Date accessed]. Available from: URL	Adewunmi, B. 2014. Caring for the carers: helping children who care for parents with mental illness. The Guardian . [Online]. 12 December. [Accessed 24 May 2017]. Available from: http://www.theguardian.com/society/2014/dec/12/-sp-guardian-observer-christmas-appeal-kidstime
Online reports	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Title . [Online]. Edition (if not first edition). Place of publication: Publisher. [Date accessed]. Available from: URL	Hollensen, S. 2011. Global marketing: A decision-oriented approach . [Online]. 5th ed. Harlow: Financial Times Prentice Hall. [Accessed 26 May 2017]. Available from: https://www.dawsonera.com/abstract/9780273726272
Thesis or dissertation	Family name, INITIAL(S). Year. Title . Type of qualification, academic institution.	Dang, V.A. 2007. Three essays in financial economics . Ph.D. thesis, University of Leeds.
Website or webpage	Family name, INITIAL(S) (or company name). Year. Title . [Online]. [Date accessed]. Available from: URL	Environment Agency. 2013. River and coastal maintenance programmes 2013-14 . [Online]. [Accessed 25 August 2017]. Available from: http://www.environment-agency.gov.uk

Note: In the reference section, sources written by the same author(s) in different years should be ordered by year of publication, with the oldest first.

Note: In instances where the author has more than one source published in the same year referenced, they should be distinguished by adding a lower-case letter after the year (a, b, c, etc.). The order they are listed should follow their first mention in the text rather than the title of the publication:

Jones, M. 1998a. How to write academically. Leeds: Academic Press.

Jones, M. 1998b. Advanced writing tips. Leeds: Academic Press.

Jones, M. 1998c. How to reference. Leeds: Academic Press.

Images, Figures, Tables, and Diagrams

All images, figures, tables, and diagrams should be numbered sequentially and have an in-text citation. The citation would normally be given after the title of the figure, table, diagram, etc.

Example: Figure 1, a wheel (Jones, 2021, p.56)

Example: (see Figure 1)

If the author(s) have already been named in the text, only the publication year and page number need to be mentioned in an in-text citation.

Example: Jones created a measurement tool (see Figure 3) to assess programme satisfaction amongst learners (2019, p.20).

Please place labels under each image, figure, table, diagram, etc. An example of this may be found in Appendix D.

When submitting your article, please ensure that images, figures, tables, diagrams, etc. are high resolution. We require that they have a minimum resolution of 600 ppi (pixels per inch). Additionally, we require that all images, figures, tables, and diagrams are in black and white. Size and position figures to achieve consistent font size and information display.

TERMINOLOGY AND AUDIENCE

The Journal encourages critical thinking and evidence-based critique. However, be careful that any personal criticism of living individuals is not in breach of the 2009 Defamation act.

Remain mindful of the impact of your writing both on readers and those you are writing about. Avoid terms that imply judgement or reinforce negative stereotypes, and unnecessarily gendered phrases (for example, ‘manning’ rather than ‘staffing’).

Terms you may wish to consider rephrasing include:

- Low-skilled
- In gainful employment
- Non-nationals
- (etc)

Please note that The Adult Learner does not use prefixes when referring to someone’s name. To note their educational background, please write out their qualifications in lieu of using a prefix ahead of their name.

Example: Jane Doe, who holds a PhD in Economics, is...

Audience

Points to consider when addressing your audience:

- Identifying yourself instead of referring to ‘the researcher’ can help the reader be more personally engaged with your article, e.g. ‘We met with the focus group to...’; ‘I conducted a literature review of...’
- Avoid use of the passive voice, e.g. “a comparison was drawn”. Instead, use the active voice, e.g. “Let’s compare this with...”; “We can compare...”; “Let’s explore...”; More personal: “When I think about the comparison between...”
- Explain your terms, not everyone will know what you mean by terms commonly used in the Adult and Community Education sector (e.g. Learner Voice)
- What change are you trying to bring about with the article? This may be a policy change, or it might be changing someone’s mind, challenging a preconception etc.

A journal article tells the reader a story. If the story is written well enough, it achieves the following things at once:

- It demonstrates the value of the research or case study and highlights the impact it may have across the Adult and Community Education sector – on policy and on people’s lives
- It shares resources and ideas that could be useful to the reader
- It demonstrates awareness of who our reader is, where they are coming from, what they are thinking about, and what challenges they might be facing
- It shares new knowledge that enhances the reader’s understanding of a topic, which they might be able to use in their own work.

Spelling of Terms

Please see below for the spelling of specific terms:

Accepted Spelling	Exceptions
Adult Education	Does not require capitalisation if it is not referring to the sector
Community Education	Does not require capitalisation if it is not referring to the sector
COVID-19
Higher Education	Does not require capitalisation if it is not referring to the sector or an institution’s name
Learner Voice	The term does not need to be capitalised if it refers to one learner’s specific voice (ex: The learner’s voice was not heard)
wellbeing

The Voice of
Adult Learning

APPENDIX

APPENDIX A

Example Author's Submission Statement

Author's Submission Statement

Name of the author(s): First Surname

Institution affiliation (If applicable): University of Journal Style Guide

Email address: example@journalsubmission.ie

Phone number: +353 01 555 2424

Mail address: 111 Example Address Way, Town, County, Eir Code, Ireland

Title of article: An analysis of example articles submitted to the Journal since 2010

Section to which the article is being submitted for consideration: Section 2: Peer-Reviewed case studies about practice

APPENDIX B

Example Title, Abstract, and Keywords Section

Psychological Capital: The Missing Link

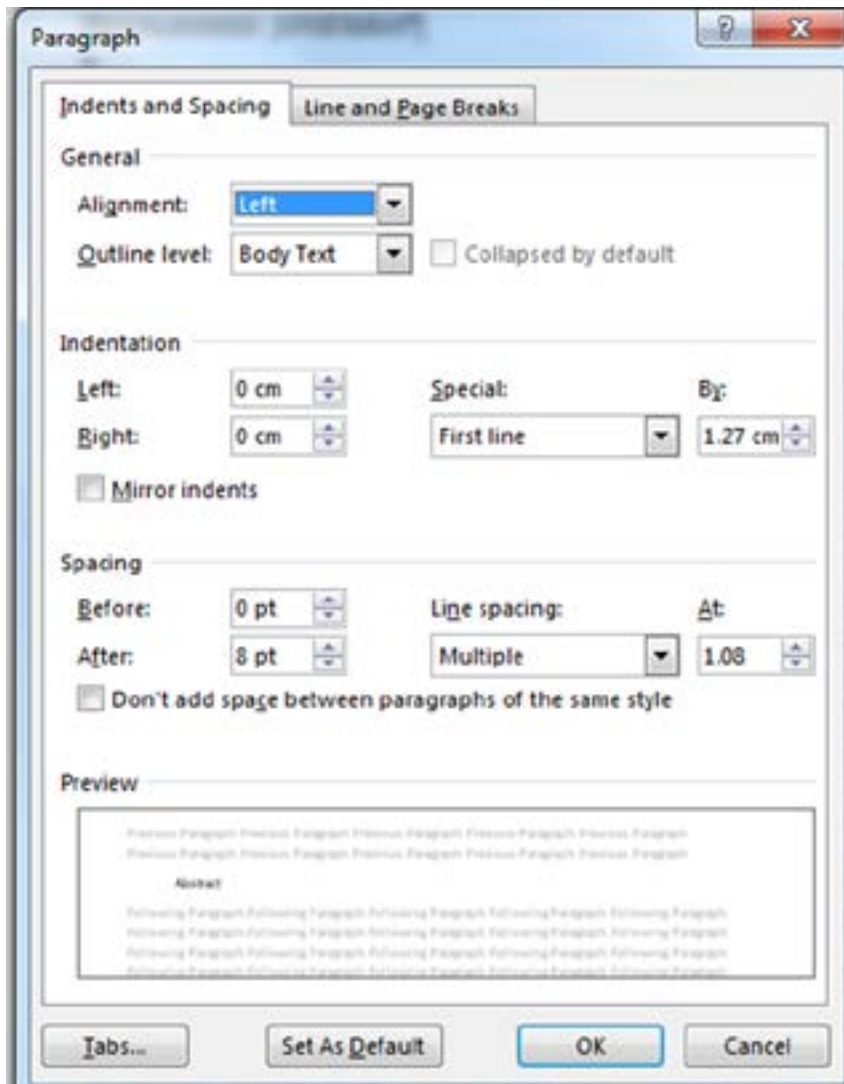

Abstract

The funding model for further education and training (FET) in the Republic of Ireland currently describes provider and learner success in narrow quantifiable terms as captured on the national Programme Learner Support System (PLSS). FET practitioners have grappled with the restrictive rigidity of these outcomes and measures of success for adult learners. This article investigates the concept of Psychological Capital (PsyCap) as a means of widening outcomes and measures in FET.

Keywords: Psychological Capital, Psychological Resources, Forms of Capital, Psychological Outcomes, Measures of Success

APPENDIX C

Indentation of subheadings

APPENDIX D

Labelling images, figures, tables and diagrams

Image 1. AONTAS logo

Place	Date	Time
Dublin	20th August	13.00
Cork	11th March	15.00
Galway	16th September	11.00
Limerick	27th June	19.00

Table 1. Data collection record

Figure 1. Pentagon

APPENDIX E

Example reference section

References

- Adewunmi, B. 2014. Caring for the carers: helping children who care for parents with mental illness. The Guardian. [Online]. 12 December. [Accessed 24 May 2017]. Available from: <http://www.theguardian.com/society/2014/dec/12/-sp-guardian-observer-christmas-appeal-kidstime>
- Chou, C.L., Teherani, A., Masters, D.E., Vener, M., Wamsley, M. and Poncelet, A. 2014. Workplace learning through peer groups in medical school clerkships. Medical Education Online. 19, article no: 25809 [no pagination].
- Coffin, J.M. 1999. Molecular biology of HIV. In: Crandell, K.A. ed. The evolution of HIV. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins Press, pp.3-40.
- Dang, V.A. 2007. Three essays in financial economics. Ph.D. thesis, University of Leeds.
- Gencturk, B. and Hosseini, F. 2015. Evaluation of reinforced concrete and reinforced engineered cementitious composite (EGC) members and structures using small-scale testing. Canadian Journal of Civil Engineering. 42(3), pp.164-177.
- Hawking, S. 2000. Professor Stephen Hawking's website. [Online]. [Accessed 25 August 2017]. Available from: <http://www.hawking.org.uk/>
- Hollensen, S. 2011. Global marketing: a decision oriented approach. [Online]. 5th ed. Harlow: Financial Times Prentice Hall. [Accessed 26 May 2017]. Available from: <https://www.dawsonera.com/abstract/9780273726272>
- MacNaughton, S.J., Stephen, J.R., Venosa, A.D. and Chang, Y.J. 1999. Microbial population changes during bioremediation of an experimental oil spill. Applied and Environmental Microbiology. 65(8), pp.3566-3574.
- Pajunen, K. 2008. Institutions and inflows of foreign direct investment: a fuzzy-set analysis. Journal of International Business Studies. 39(4), pp.652-669.