Foreword

AONTAS is Ireland's national adult learning organisation. As well as providing information to adults we promote the value and benefits of adult learning. AONTAS has worked with adult learners for almost 50 years and we know it can be hard to take the first step back into education, especially if you have been away from formal education for many years. Although many adults say it can be daunting to enter the classroom again after years out of education often when they do take that step, they find a class full of adults in the same position. Each year in Ireland over 300,000 adults take part in education and training courses or programmes. We hear from many adult learners about their positive experiences of returning to learning.

“You will learn something new and meet new people who are feeling the same emotions - together you will reach the mountain top of achievement.”

One Step Up Learner, Age 48

We have worked with many learners who have returned to learning for different reasons: to learn something new, to get a job, to help their kids with homework, to make friends or because they wanted to get a qualification. Whatever your reason for doing a course, there are a variety of options available. We also know that sometimes it's hard to find information about the opportunities that are available. That's why AONTAS has developed the One Step Up Information Booklet ( www.onestepup.ie) to make it easy for you to find options quickly. In developing this booklet we have spoken to many organisations who are providers of courses, information, advice or support in adult and community education, so that we can provide the most useful information for you.

This booklet aims to provide you with information on adult learning options whether it's a course, funding information or local service contacts.

Increasing access to education and training

AONTAS believes that all adults in Ireland have a right to quality learning throughout their lives, and at European level the European Union believes that 'access to learning and training opportunities must be a right for everyone at every stage of life' so that adults can get the skills they need.

About 70 million Europeans need help with basic skills such as reading, this can make it difficult for people to find a job or to live comfortably. As a result, the European Union is supporting Member States, including Ireland to help adults get the skills they need in reading, writing, spelling, maths, and computers. This programme is called 'Upskilling Pathways' - many different organisations will work closely together in order to reach out to learners to help them get involved in further learning and gain skills.

AONTAS would like to thank all those who contributed to this booklet, especially the learners. We hope that you find this booklet useful in finding the information or course that you need to get One Step Up.

I need help making a decision about what course is right for me

Many people are unsure of where to start when returning to education and often the first step is the hardest. The Adult Education Guidance and Information Services delivered by the Education and Training Boards (ETBs) provide information and guidance on learning options. The service:

- ✓ Supports people to explore their Further Education and Training (FET) options while developing a personal progress plan
- ✓ Provides one-to-one educational guidance, information on local and national courses, help with college applications and information on funding sources
- ✓ Is available to people over 18 years of age (and to those over 16 years, who are not in full-time education)
- ✓ Gives priority to those who are currently unemployed
- ✓ Provides a professional service that is free and confidential

Contact the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB,  Page 52 or the Adult Educational Guidance Association of Ireland  www.aegai.ie

If you are looking for web based guidance tools Careers Portal ( www.careersportal.ie) has useful information and advice, as well as many career sector videos.

I need help understanding qualifications

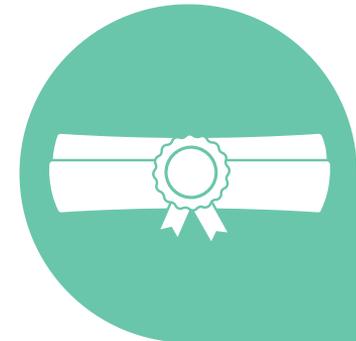

The National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ)

- ✓ The NFQ is a system of 10 levels
- ✓ Levels represent all learning from beginners to advanced, for example the Junior Certificate is level 3
- ✓ Includes qualifications achieved in school, Further Education and Training (FET) and third level education

✓ Learners receive a QQI award when they successfully complete a course, this award is recognised nationally and internationally

- ✓ Quality and Qualifications Ireland (QQI) look after the NFQ and make awards in further education and training and third level education
- ✓ A qualification may be awarded for a component (part) or a complete (full) award at any level
- ✓ You can find your qualification level on the diagram on the next page. For an interactive map go to  www.nfq-qqi.com

National Framework of Qualifications

AWARDING BODIES

- Quality and Qualifications Ireland (QQI) makes awards in further and higher education and training
- SEC - State Examinations Commission (Department of Education and Skills)
- Institutes of Technology
- Universities

AWARDS IN THE FRAMEWORK

There are four classes of award in the National Framework of Qualifications:

-  Major Awards: named in the outer rings, are the principal class of awards made at a level
-  Minor Awards: are for partial completion of the outcomes for a Major Award
-  Supplemental Awards: are for learning that is additional to a Major Award
-  Special Purpose Awards: are for relatively narrow or purpose-specific achievement

Major Awards (full awards or certificates)

- Main class of award (for example the Leaving Certificate)
- 16 major awards in the National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ) see the fan diagram  page 8
- Major awards usually comprise of 8 minor awards/modules

Minor Awards (component (part) certificates)

- Awards are single modules which can be completed and certified individually
- All minor awards are linked to a major award
- Learners can build on their minor awards and work towards gaining a major award

I need help finding a particular course

There are lots of course options, but before you decide on a course it may be useful to get in touch with the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB,  page 52.

Further Education and Training (FET) Courses (Levels 1-6)

- Courses lead to awards from levels 1 to 6 on the National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ)
- Courses are offered by the 16 ETBs in collaboration with SOLAS, the Further Education and Training Authority
- Courses can be full-time or part-time and are delivered in a wide range of ETB settings including further education colleges, Youthreach, adult education centres and training centres
- Different centres may offer minor (component) or major (complete) awards
- Courses are also provided through community and voluntary groups, commercial training providers and in workplaces

Third Level Courses (Levels 6-10)

The term third level will be used throughout this booklet to describe universities or higher education colleges

Third level institutions offer full-time and part-time courses. You can search for courses on  www.qualifax.ie or if you are unemployed you can use  www.springboardcourses.ie.

 www.qualifax.ie, the National Learners' Database provides information on a range of further education and third level education courses and allows you to:

- Find and compare courses
- Create a personal account and save your favourites
- Check out the subject choice module for Junior and Leaving Certificate
- Gather information on mature student entry
- Do an interest assessment to see what suits you

Community Education (Non-Accredited and Levels 2-5)

Community education takes place in local community projects and centres and offers the following:

- Courses for all adults in a welcoming environment
- A positive, informal, non-threatening first step back to education
- A wide range of part-time courses generally levels 2 to 5 on the National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ). Some organisations may offer courses at level 6 or above
- Non-accredited courses for people who wish to learn a new skill, meet new people and/or develop their confidence
- Courses including everything from computers skills, personal development, professional skills and hobby based courses

What's an Education and Training Board (ETB)?

The Education and Training Boards (ETBs) (formally Vocational Education Committees or VECs) are the main providers of Further Education and Training (FET) in Ireland.

There are 16 ETBs throughout the country that manage second-level schools, further education centres, training centres, multi-faith community national schools and a range of adult and further education centres delivering education and training programmes. The ETBs work in collaboration with SOLAS, the Further Education and Training Authority. The following table shows the programmes run by the ETBs. They also run open days and information days to showcase the range of courses on offer. To find out about local events visit  www.onestepup.ie.

Who are SOLAS?

SOLAS is the Further Education and Training (FET) authority and an agency of the Department of Education and Skills. SOLAS manage, coordinate and support the delivery of FET services by the Education and Training Boards (ETBs) and other FET providers. SOLAS manages the National Apprenticeship system, eCollege, Safe Pass (the Construction Skills Certification Scheme).

What is PLSS (Programme Learner Support System)?

This is an online system used to collect and share information. This includes a national programme database known as www.fetchcourses.ie which lists all FET courses.

I need help improving my reading, writing, spelling or maths

If you want to improve your basic skills or want to progress but don't feel confident enough, the Adult Literacy Service may be able to help:

- ✓ Courses are designed to meet each person's ability and aimed at supporting people to return to learning
- ✓ Courses are offered in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere and most centres offer one to one or small group tuition
- ✓ This free and confidential service is open to anyone over 16 years, who is no longer at school, but wants to improve reading, writing, spelling, numeracy skills or learn about computers
- ✓ Adult literacy centres also offer courses in personal development, basic computers and family learning
- ✓ Courses are available in Irish in adult literacy centres in Gaeltacht areas

Find contacts for the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB on  page 52 or contact the Adult Literacy Organiser Association website  www.aloa.ie

Distance Learning Service

If you can't travel to one of the centres on a regular basis, the National Adult Literacy Agency (NALA) offers a distance learning service. This option allows you to study online by yourself or you can work with a tutor over the phone. You can study at your own pace and in your own time to improve your skills or get a national qualification.

FETCH (Further Education and Training Course Hub)

FETCH ( www.fetchcourses.ie) allows learners to find out information on over 4,000 Further Education and Training (FET) courses in one place. These programmes are delivered by a range of FET providers across 26 counties, and online through SOLAS eCollege. www.fetchcourses.ie was developed by SOLAS, the Further Education & Training Authority in partnership with Education and Training Boards Ireland (ETBI) and other FET providers.

NFQ levels for each programme may vary depending on the ETB or provider.

 To find out if you qualify for any of the programmes contact your local ETB. See contacts page 52.

Most Education and Training Boards have open days and Information events. To find when your next event is taking place visit:  www.onestepup.ie/calendar

I'm looking for a second chance at learning

NFQ levels for each programme may vary depending on the Education and Training Board (ETB) or provider.

Second chance and further education gives people another opportunity to learn in a safe environment that is adult learner centred. There are a number of programmes that you can do including Post Leaving Certificate (PLC) courses, Youthreach, Back to Education Initiative (BTEI), and community education. If you want support in exploring your Further Education and Training (FET) options you can contact your Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB or you can find courses on

 www.fetchcourses.ie

Post Leaving Certificate (PLC) courses - Full-time

PLCs offer a mixture of practical work, academic work and work experience. These courses can be a step towards skilled employment and so they are closely linked to industry and its skills needs. Courses are delivered in a wide range of subjects, such as business studies, childcare, community care, computers, horticulture, multimedia production, sport and leisure and tourism. The courses generally lead to qualifications at NFQ levels 5 and 6. PLC courses are full-time and last for one to two years. There may be a contribution fee depending on your situation and you can contact Student Universal Support Ireland (SUSI) to find out if you qualify for a grant.

Find out about PLCs through the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB contacts on  page 52.

Youthreach - Full-time

Youthreach is a programme for young people aged 15 to 20, who left school early and are not working. Learners are supported to develop individual learning plans aimed at increasing their self-esteem, skills and knowledge and ability to get a job. Youthreach programmes lead to awards typically at levels 3 and 4 on the National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ). Depending on the centre, Youthreach may offer Quality and Qualifications Ireland (QQI) accredited, Junior Certificate or Leaving Certificate Programmes. Youthreach is a full-time programme, which usually take place over two years.

Find out about Youthreach through the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB, contacts on  page 52 or on  www.youthreach.ie

Traineeships - Full-time

Traineeships provide job-specific training and combine formal classroom training and workplace coaching with a host employer. Traineeships are full-time and usually take 4-9 months to complete. All programmes lead to an award at levels 4-6 on the NFQ or another awarding body. There are a wide range of traineeships on offer including Hairdressing and Aircraft Maintenance.

Back to Education Initiative (BTEI) - Part-time

BTEI is designed for learners who need to balance their return to learning with family, work and other commitments. Courses are offered on a flexible part-time basis throughout the year. Courses lead to a range of accreditation at levels 1-6 on the National Framework of Qualifications (NFQ). Priority will be given to those who do not have a Leaving Certificate.

Specialist Training Providers (STPs) – Full-time

STPs offer a range of flexible training programmes for people with disabilities. Courses are generally one to two years in duration, and lead to accreditation at levels 1-6 on the NFQ. Courses include Information and Communications Technology (ICT) and Vocational Multi Skills. Additional support may be provided such as adapted equipment and transport arrangements for a person with a disability.

Community Training Centres (CTCs) – Full-time

CTCs provide training and education for early school leavers, primarily aged between 16 and 21. All programmes offer personal and social skills development along with vocational training. Courses are generally one year in duration, are full-time and lead to major awards on the NFQ at levels 3 and 4. Examples of programmes offered include employability skills and communications skills.

Local Training Initiative Programmes (LTIs) – Full-time

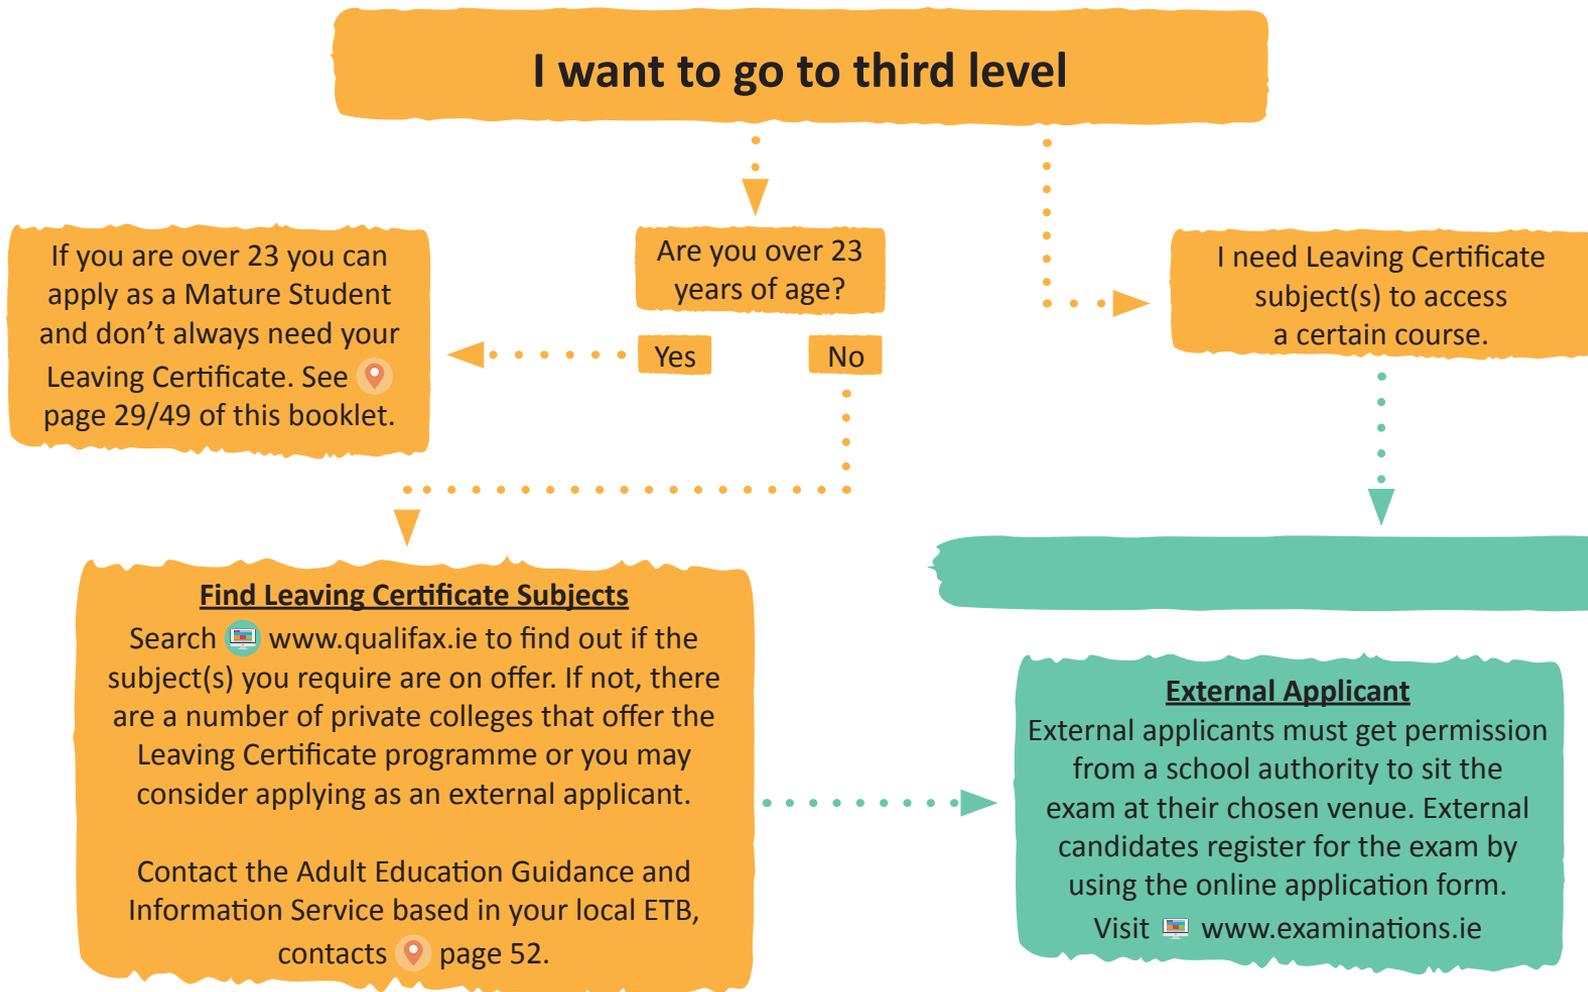

LTIs provide project based training and work experience for people who are 18-35 years, unemployed and who are finding it difficult to gain employment. These programmes are run locally by community groups and offered all year round. Training on LTIs lead to awards on the NFQ at levels 3, 4 and 5.

Find out about these programmes through your local Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB, contacts on  Page 52.

I want to do an apprenticeship

Apprenticeships

If you would like to work, while also getting a qualification, an apprenticeship may be a good option. There are a variety of apprenticeships on offer from traditional crafts (Carpentry, Electrical, Toolmaking, and Motor) to new apprenticeships in Insurance Practice and Industrial Electrical Engineering. The new apprenticeships are very flexible and range from two to four years. Traditionally, an apprenticeship received a NFQ level 6 award but newer apprenticeships are offered from levels 5 to 9 on the NFQ.

Apprenticeships are managed by SOLAS. Craft apprenticeships are a partnership between employers, trade unions and training providers.

What do I need to become an apprentice?

Depending on the apprenticeship there will be different entry requirements:

- At least Junior Certificate (or equivalent) but many require Leaving Certificate (or equivalent)
- For some craft apprenticeships you will be required to pass a colour vision test
- A pre-apprenticeship course or at least three years' relevant work experience approved by SOLAS, may also be considered

- You must be employed in your chosen occupation with an approved employer. A bursary is available to employers who recruit females into designated apprenticeships

How do I apply?

Search for an apprentice position on  www.jobsireland.ie or contact the apprenticeship section in your local Education and Training Board.

Visit  www.apprenticeship.ie for contact details.

I want to do an online course

If you want to learn from home there are many options available. An online course means you receive course materials and teaching online such as live lectures and for those which are fully online there is no requirement to attend class. If you would like a mixture of both online and class room based learning there are also many blended learning options available.

It may be useful to contact your Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB, contact details on  page 52 to discuss the online learning options available.

Further Education Options

www.ecollege.ie offers a range of online courses from web and graphic design to project management. Courses are offered all year round and use both written and video lessons along with the support of a full time eTutor. At the end of the course you sit an exam to get an industry recognised certificate. Courses are offered by SOLAS and are free to jobseekers and on a fee basis to other individuals. If you are a jobseeker contact your local Intreo office to get registered. If you are a fee-paying client visit  www.ecollege.ie for pricing and enrolment.

Third Level Options

Many third level institutions also offer accredited (at certificate, degree, or postgraduate) online courses, most of these courses are offered part-time. Most have a specific online learning website which gives useful information on the courses offered and what is required so check out their individual website.

 www.qualifax.ie

Free Non-Accredited Courses

If you want to try online learning without any cost or commitment, then look for a MOOC (Massive Open Online Course) which is a free online learning experience.

I want to get a qualification for my previous learning or work experience

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is learning or work experience that you have built up over the years outside of the classroom. This learning may have taken place formally, through a further or third level education provider or informally or non-formally through work/life experiences. Certificates, photographs of your work or letters from your employer are examples of ways which you can show how you have met the learning outcomes required for your new course of study.

Some Further Education and Training (FET) and third level providers have RPL policies and procedures in place, but these can vary. It is best to speak with your course provider regarding their RPL procedures.

Contact your FET providers on  page 52 or third level contacts on  page 49.

I want to volunteer

If you want to take part in non-formal learning, volunteering can help you develop life skills such as team work, creativity and initiative. There are many ways to volunteer and thousands of organisations across Ireland looking for help. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer you can find opportunities near you by searching on the Volunteer Ireland website.

If you are between 17 and 30 years of age and would like to volunteer in another country the European Voluntary Service (EVS) provides support and funding for young people to spend some time doing voluntary work in another country.

I want to study at third Level. What steps should I take?

Adult learners can take part in third level education in a number of ways. Adults who would like to do an undergraduate course (certificate or degree) for the first time, or to upskill by doing a new course, can apply as a mature student applicant to any third level education institution.

A mature student is someone who is aged 23 or over on 1st January in the year of entry to a full-time undergraduate course. Many third level institutions also offer part-time courses, continuing professional development (CPD) courses and postgraduate courses, all of which are open to adult learners.

Step 1: Seek Guidance

Guidance can help people make the right learning choices. Some third level institutions have a pre-entry educational guidance service that you may be able to access or you can contact your local Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB.

Contact details are on  page 52 of this information booklet.

Mature student applicants do not apply through the 'points' system, and may not need to have completed the Leaving Certificate. Applications are based on life experience and academic achievement.

Step 2: Research Your Choices

Before making an application you should spend time researching different programmes of interest, including the subjects that are taught, whether there are specific entry requirements and what career options are available afterward. As a mature student you generally do not need to have completed a Leaving Certificate. However some programmes may specify certain Leaving Certificate subjects as part of their entry criteria. You can search for third level courses on  www.qualifax.ie, and then contact the institution directly to request a prospectus.

Contact details for each institution are on  page 49 of this information booklet.

Step 3: Attend an Open Day

Most third level institutions have open days or information sessions especially in September, October and January. These events will give you an opportunity to look around the college, meet teaching and support staff and learn about the programmes available. To find out what open days are taking place visit  www.onestepup.ie.

Step 4: Complete a Pre-College Course

Access or Foundation courses are designed for those who have been away from formal education for a number of years but would like to return. These courses help mature students to develop core skills to pursue a third level education such as study skills and computer skills. Some access courses also cater for students from disadvantaged backgrounds who are not necessarily mature students.

Third level contacts are listed on  page 49.

Post Leaving Certificate (PLC) courses can provide a very useful progression route into Third Level courses.

Step 5: How to Apply

- To submit an application as a mature student for most full-time undergraduate courses you must apply online through the Central Applications Office (CAO) before the 1st February, otherwise most third level education institutions will not consider you as a 'mature student' even if you apply using the 'Late Application' or 'Change of Mind' forms
- To request a copy of the CAO handbook visit  www.cao.ie or call  091 509 800. The handbook gives advice on whether to apply through the CAO or directly, and by what date you should submit your application
- Before applying you should visit  www.cao.ie/mature for mature applicants
- Mature applicants must tick 'Mature Applicant' and provide additional information such as a statement of interest, experience, and hobbies/interest
- Most third level institutions will interview mature applicants
- Application fees apply but a discount is available if you apply early
- Decisions on offers of places to mature applicants are normally made in early July
- Visit Mature Students Ireland (MSI)  www.maturestudents.ie

I want to study at third Level. What steps should I take?

Step 6: Research the Cost and Funding

Going back to third level may involve costs, depending on the course you choose and the location, for full time students there are two types of fees:

1. Tuition Fees

Tuition fees vary depending on the course, the institution and whether you are an EU or non-EU student. If you are an Irish or EU national, or have been granted Refugee status attending full-time third level education for the first time you may be entitled to the Free Fees Initiative which covers the majority of full-time undergraduate programmes. The course must be at least two years and offered by one of the main third level institutions in Ireland. For more information and to find out if you qualify visit:

 www.studentfinance.ie

2. Student Contribution Fee

A full time student is required to pay a student contribution fee to cover various student services such as examination fees. Eligible students may apply to the Student Universal Support Ireland (SUSI) to cover this fee. The maximum rate of the student contribution fee for the academic year 2017-2018 is €3,000.

 www.susi.ie

Other Factors - Cost of Living

As a mature student, you need to consider the cost of living while attending full time education for more information on For more information and support around this, you can contact your local Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local Education and Training Board (ETB). Contact details on  page 52.

What third level access supports are available?

Students with a disability

If you are under 23 years and your disability impacted your second level education, then you may be able to apply for Disability Access Route to Education (DARE). DARE offers reduced points places to eligible school leavers. To qualify for DARE you must meet both the DARE evidence of disability criteria and DARE educational impact criteria. Mature students and students applying on the basis of Further Education and Training (FET) results have different admission routes.

 091 509 800 (CAO Helpdesk)

 www.accesscollege.ie

Students from disadvantaged backgrounds

If you are under 23 years and from a socio-economically disadvantaged background living in Ireland you may be able to avail of the Higher Education Access Route (HEAR). This scheme offers places on reduced points and extra college support. Applications to HEAR can only be made online through the CAO. Mature students and students applying on the basis of Further Education and Training (FET) results have different admission.

Where can I find a list of open days?

Many course providers hold open days to show the range of courses they have on offer. These open days are a great opportunity to find out about courses, take a tour of the college or centre, and speak to a tutor. Although open days can be held at any time of year, many colleges and centres host events in September or January. The One Step Up website has a calendar of events.

Student Universal Support Ireland (SUSI) – Full-time study in further or third level

SUSI (Student Universal Support Ireland) provides financial support to eligible students in the form of maintenance grants and/or fees (or student contribution, where applicable).

Where the student is pursuing an approved full-time education in further education (Post Leaving Certificate courses), third level education, postgraduate studies and also in some cases to students who wish to study outside of the Republic of Ireland.

Further Education	Third Level Education
Post Leaving Certificate	Degrees	Postgraduate	Outside the Republic of Ireland
If you are attending full-time further education (Post Leaving Certificate courses) you can apply for a maintenance grant. The value of this grant is determined by the level of reckonable income in the household for the previous year and the distance travelled from home to college (more or less than 45km). It should be noted that those in receipt of a Back to Education allowance from the Department of Social Protection are not eligible for a SUSI maintenance grant.	If you are attending third level education and you qualify for the maintenance grant, the fees/student contribution may also be covered, whichever applies to the student. For mature students going back to study, it should be noted that those in receipt of a Back to Education allowance from the Department of Social Protection are not eligible for a SUSI maintenance grant.	Eligible students at postgraduate level receive a contribution towards the cost of the postgraduate fees and from the beginning of the 2017/18 academic year, postgraduate students qualifying for the Special Rate of grant from SUSI may receive a maintenance grant.	Eligible students attending approved courses/institutions outside of the Republic of Ireland, at undergraduate level only, receive a maintenance grant from SUSI. There is no funding available towards fees, further education or postgraduate education (except for some courses in four institutions in Northern Ireland) for students studying outside the State.

How to apply

- Make an application through  www.susi.ie
- Self-assess using the 'Eligibility Reckoner' on the home page of SUSI's website
- Find out if you qualify for a student grant before making an application
- Set up your own online SUSI account creating a username, password and PIN code
- Enter your own Personal Public Service (PPS) number and those of your parents/spouse etc
- Track the progress of your application

Full-time study for those unemployed - Back to Education Allowance (BTEA)

If you are unemployed, parenting alone or have a disability and you are getting certain welfare payments, you may be able to take part in a second or third-level education course and get a Back to Education Allowance (BTEA). This means:

- ✓ You can keep your social welfare payment and return to approved full-time courses
- ✓ You must be progressing in your education
- ✓ You will not qualify if you have a post graduate qualification
- ✓ To find out if you qualify contact the Adult Education Guidance and Information Service based in your local ETB, contacts on  page 52 or local Intreo Centre
